

By donating $325,000 in airtime to Republican candidates in certain areas Pappa is abusing its privileged access to the public airwaves. Moreover, by allowing Pappas to do so, the FCC is making sheep of Americans. That's right, sheep.

Why think for ourselves when our major corporations can plant their positions into us like a smartcard in a digital video camera?

By making this move, Pappas corporation becomes a Fortune 10 contributor to a polarized society. By airing free GOP ads they stack the deck against the American people. They turn their back on the majority, and contribute to the erosion of a solid foundation of a free thinking, free market society.

Shame on Pappas!
